WOMAN DEFENDS HUSBAND'S PROPERTY AND DRIVES JUMPERS OFF WITH SHOTGUN

From news which reached the city yesterday it seems that there was a lively time out at Bingham on Thursday. J. B. Taylor, the superintendent of the Eingham Copper Boy company's at the mine, drove the second crowd off also backed by one of the remaining men at the mine; drove the second crowd off also.

When seen late yesterday afternoon Mr. Taylor said he was waiting to hear from the sheriff of Tooele county as to what had been done and they undertook, it is said, to relocate them. A few days ago Taylor was called down to Green River on business, but, according to his own story, he arranged to have some of the boys at the mine see to it that his claims were not "jumped."

On his arrival from the south yesterday he found that his men had executed the trust reposed in them by driving off the Fratt-Grow forces at the muzzles of vicious looking shotsguns. The party attacked at once repaired to Tooele and swore out complaints and later in the day four of premises.

So He Claimed When Daughter Dragged Him to Opera.

A pleasant anecdote of her father was told by Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, the daughter of General Grant, says the New York Press. Mrs. Sartoris was lunching with her friends when in this city, and the subject turned on the opera. Then Mrs. Saryou know, I never hear the word 'opera' that I am not reminded of my dear father, whose ear for music was extraordinary. That is, he knew no difference between the ruffling knew no difference between the ruffling of a drum and Patti's rarest note. So, you see, we had great difficulty in dragging him to the opera because the music was all chaos to him. However, when Christine Nilsson, after a tour of great success, came to New York, he agreed to hear her with us. I believe she sang in the old Academy of Music in Fourteenth street. We were sitting in a box with a large company, and my father conversed through the overture and aria. Finally when Nilsson appeared he was still when Nilsson appeared he was still oblivious to the music. I put my hand on his arm and said: 'Father, Nilsson is singing.' He smiled induigently and replied with a fine show of magnanimity: 'That's all right, Nellie, dear; she's not disturbing me in the least,' and he went on talking."

RICHARDSON SUSPECTED. — Jack Richardson, who is always arrested when a barber shop is robbed, was taken in custody yesterday when the police officers learned of the robbery of the Squires barber shop on First South between Main and Commercial streets. He was placed in the city jail with the charge of burglary entered against him, but aside from his predatory habits, no proof has been secured that will be likely to result in his conviction. The Squires barber shop was entered early yesterday morning. Quantities of razors and other tonsorial requirements were taken, and Richardson was at once placed under arrest. He is now confined in the city jail, but declares that he is able to prove his innocence.

A NATURAL SANITARIUM.

an article to a preminent magazine on the climatic conditions of California in which the following statement appeared:

Theoretically, California should fur-

most every form of wasting disease should find the means of temporary, if not permanent, relief."

This theoretical statement, from an unbiased, scientific standpoint, is abundantly confirmed by experience. The cool and bracing coast climate, devoid of any trace of malaria, extends from the northern part of the state to the extreme south. There is the choice between this cool, humid atmosphere and the dry, warm atmosphere of the inland valleys.

Of altitude there is a yet greater difference. From Palm Valley, 300 feet below sea level, to the upper Sierras, 7,000 or 8,000 feet above, any altitude can be selected and comfortable homes be founded.

The peculiarity of an almost rainless summer, during which the injurious germs of animal and vegetable decay are destroyed by thorough desiccation, is one of the striking features of California climate.

During the rainy season it is usually is one of the striking features of California climate.

During the rainy season it is usually too cool to facilitate fermentation, and the result is, except along some of the river valleys, an absolutely pure atmosphere. The ocean winds entering through the several coast openings, are tempered by the intermediate area passed over, and often receive desirable healing preperties by taking up the resinous odors of the pines and redwoods on the Coast Range.

The skilful physician, acquainted with the climatic conditions, should find little difficulty in selecting a locality where climate and environment will do all that these agencies can ever do toward the restoration of health. There is enough of wildness to keep the mind constantly engaged, and enough of civilization to satisfy the most exacting.

An Old Story But It Always Tells Well. (Philadelphia Press.) "Well." remarked Congressma Morse of Kentucky, "you fellows have told a bunch of mighty stale stories and perpetrated a pun as an atrocious climax. I think I can tell one that will break up this party. It is suggested by my friend's reference to mint julep. I suppose none, of you ever heard the story of the origin of the mint julep?"

There was a stampede from the cloak room. Everybody went save Brandegee, the new member from Con-Brandegee, the new member from Con-necticut, elected to fill a vacancy. To him this story was told:

"In the early days of Kentucky a stranger stopped over night with a dis-tiller, who had some fine liquor and a very notable spring of water. Growing about the spring was a quantity of mint. The stranger mixed the mint with the liquor spring vater and some with the liquor, spring water and some sugar and he and the distiller tot far into the night repeating the dose.

Next spring the stranger passed that way again; a woman came to the door, "Where's the old man?" the vistor asked. "'Dead,' replied the woman. Dead, replied the woman,

"'Dead?"
"'Yep; a fellow came along here last spring and taught him to put grass in his licker, and it finally killed him."

Plight of Kansas "Pops."

(Washington Post.)

"Irrigation Bill" Reeder of Kansas stepped back into one of the window recesses of the house yesterday.

"I told a story in my campaign." whispersed "Irrigation Bill." who never got into politics till two years ago, and never made a speech, either, "that set the boys to 'hollerin'.

"Somebody threw a little black dog aboard the express car, down in one of our towns. The dog didn't know where he was going, and neither did anybody else, for he had swallowed the tag.

"Now, that's just like the Pops were out in my district this summer." concluded "Irrigation Bill," who, with unction, added that the Pops used to be mighty numerous when he first began to run for congress. Plight of Kansas "Pops."
